

20/3/23

Planning website idea

1. Helps young people to learn morse code *

Who: anyone in australia who is interested in learning morse code

What: they will learn the basics of morse code

Why : if they are interested in learning morse code

How: they get to have a niche talent they can use every once in a while

Statement of intent

My intent is to create a website to help people of Australia learn and understand morse code. With younger people they will most likely not understand morse due to their young age compared to an older audience which might not have a very good understanding of morse.

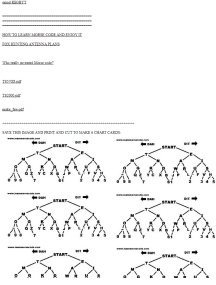

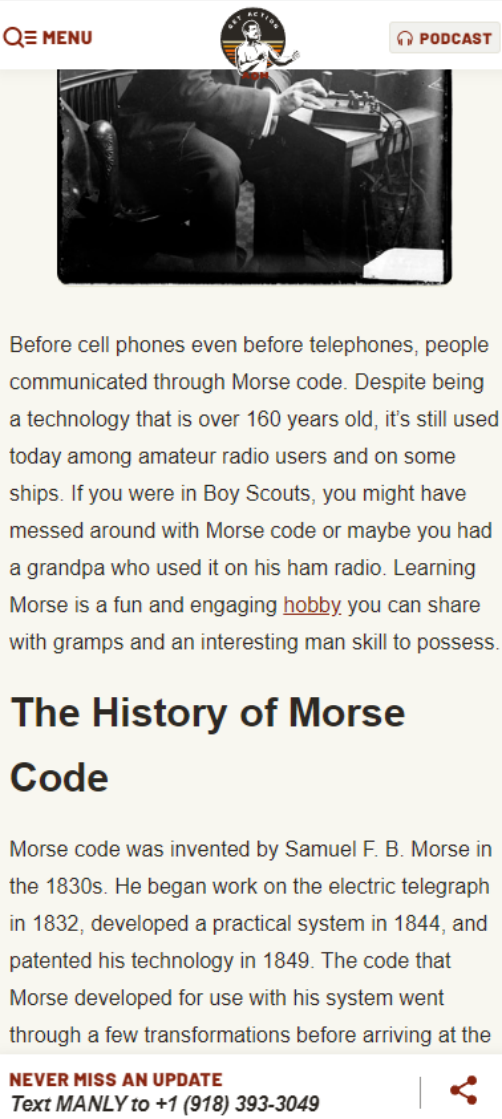

My website will include Because

Charts displaying every letter of morse and how to recognise it. Symbol's of morse and common ways to shorten sentences. It can also display different items that can be used to create morse code. As well tips to learn quicker and better

From visiting my website

They will learn how to use morse code and have the ability to teach it to others.this skill will allow them to communicate with others who know morse.

https://morse.withgoogle.com/learn/ 	<ul style="list-style-type: none">• Its very bright which might attract people to continue using the site• All of the important information in the site is located in the centre• The site is meant to be used on phone which allows people to use the site efficiently on the go• There are also buttons in the centre and in the right corner
http://www.learnmorsecode.com/	<ul style="list-style-type: none">• The website doesn't include a lot of features but instead only images• The text on the website is too small• Has links to random pdf which might not be safe

	<ul style="list-style-type: none"> 70% of the website is just images and contains no colour
https://www.artofmanliness.com/skills/how-to/morse-code/  Before cell phones even before telephones, people communicated through Morse code. Despite being a technology that is over 160 years old, it's still used today among amateur radio users and on some ships. If you were in Boy Scouts, you might have messed around with Morse code or maybe you had a grandpa who used it on his ham radio. Learning Morse is a fun and engaging hobby you can share with gramps and an interesting man skill to possess. <h2>The History of Morse Code</h2> Morse code was invented by Samuel F. B. Morse in the 1830s. He began work on the electric telegraph in 1832, developed a practical system in 1844, and patented his technology in 1849. The code that Morse developed for use with his system went through a few transformations before arriving at the NEVER MISS AN UPDATE Text MANLY to +1 (918) 393-3049	Dimension of an iphone 12 pro I like the buttons that are displayed on the website in the two top corners. They are out of the way of the text and allow the audience to have a pleasant viewing experience as well the yellow cream colour allows it to pop out of the usual white on black text that is normal. One of the features that i think was a good addition was that as you scroll down the header vanishes while when you scroll back up it appears when you scroll back up.

Layout

Buttons - I will include buttons that will be in the shape of letters and once you click on the buttons they will redirect you lower down the page to the letter that you selected and you will be able to find the buttons again once you click on the sidebar which will reveal the buttons

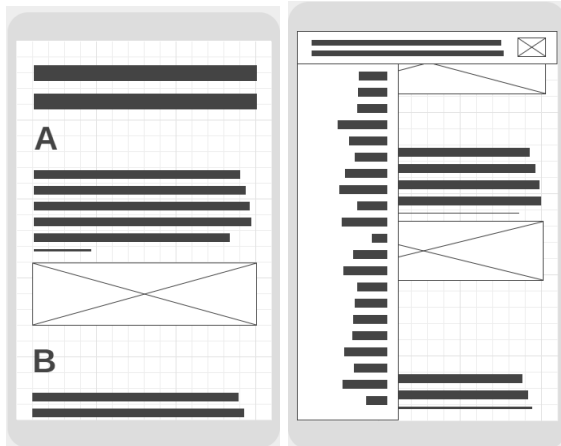

Side bar - the side bar will display the letters on a top down view of the letters in alphabetical order. There will be buttons that you can click on which will redirect you to the letter further down the page that you selected.

There will include a anchor tag which will send you to a new page that will display tips and tricks to pick up the language.

Wireframe layout

Mobile

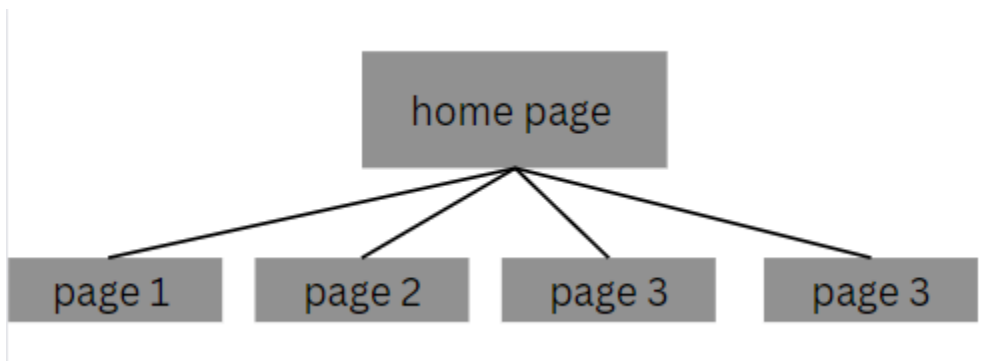

First persona

As an australian teenager who lives in sydney who wants to learn morse code /role/who
 I want to learn morse code /action/what
 So that i can talk to my friends who also know morse code objective/purpose/why

Second persona

As a young adult who lives in sydney /role/who
 I want to learn morse code /action/what
 So that i have something to do while i'm bored at home /purpose/why

site map

Logo